Training Documentation

The system is designed to be readily learnable, the aim is that it is so easy to use no instruction is required. That is a goal we truly believe in and strive to hold true. You can see our very first usability goal addresses this and we have prepared tests to ensure this is the case. If we find users can't use our application without asking questions such as "how do I do x?" then we will redesign the system until that is the case.